Our 35th Year of Bringing Woodworkers Together

The Next Meeting is 7 pm, Wednesday, July 27th, at the Al Bahr Temple
5440 Kearney Mesa Rd. (behind the Hampton Inn)

July Program: The Last Detail Custom Woodworks

Dell Cover, Program Chairman

Shadow boxes, sea trunks, military plaques, flag stands, these are just some of the souvenirs and memento items made by Kenneth Martinez for current and retired military personnel. Kenneth has made a full business of supplying these items with an incredible sense of creativity and style. For the July program, he will share with us some of the pieces that he has done over the years; a little bit on how he works with the client; and, develops a personalized case or trophy box for them. He's even made a game cabinet that looks just like a boomer sub. You may have seen some of his items in the Del Mar Fair where he has been exhibiting for some time. The meeting will be on Wednesday, July 27 at 7:00PM (that's 19:00 for you military people) in the Al Bahr Temple, located behind the Hampton Inn.

See you there, Del Cover

Howard Boehm Shop Tour September 10th

Dale Stauffer, Shop Tours Chairman

By the time you are reading this, I hope you had a nice time at the Miniature Engineering Craftsmanship Museum. The upcoming tour will be at Howard Boehm's shop in Blossom Valley and will be very interesting. Howard has completed many projects, some of which you can see on You Tube (follow links this page). Come out, meet Howard, and enjoy coffee and donuts beginning at 9 am. Enjoy!

Directions from I-8 eastbound: Take exit 23 left onto Lake Jennings Park Rd, turn right onto Blossom Valley Rd, turn right onto Quail Canyon Rd, 11122 Quail Canyon Rd, El Cajon, CA 92021 is on the left. From I-8 you will travel about 4 miles.

President's Message July, 2016

Bernie Burke,
President SDFWA

Summer is really here, the Fair is over, temperatures are warming, and folks are traveling. I sincerely hope that everyone had a great Fourth of July celebration (even if that meant doing absolutely nothing), and that you are all looking forward to enjoying the season.

Design In Wood 2016 is now in the history books. I really enjoyed my time there and the association with other members who were also helping with setup or walking the floor. We all owe a debt of gratitude to Ed Gladney and his crew who continue to make us all look good, and to the volunteers who helped to make this an event that many in the San Diego area look forward to each year. If you didn't do a session of floor walking or working in the shop this year, plan to do so next year. It really is fun, educational, and needed. It was gratifying to talk with strangers at the event and learn how much it meant to them. Personally, I found it humbling to see how gifted some of our members and others are. That they could envision such a wood working project, and then had the skills and confidence to make that vision come to life is just amazing-Keep Up the Good Work!

After a much deserved rest, Ed will be back at our service again as he moves forward to putting on the Fall Seminar. I'm looking forward to this event and just now signed up on-line. It was so easy and the cost is quite reasonable for an event of this caliber. The seminar starts with a short session on Friday evening, followed by all day sessions on Saturday and Sunday, September 16-18. Look it up on our web-site and I think you also will get excited. This year he has arranged for Jeff Miller to come from Chicago and educate us on his chair making techniques, which I'm sure will be a fun event. Join us.

Gary Anderson will have a separate article relating to the Member Shop, but I want to encourage everyone to get involved. This is undoubtedly the biggest new thing we have tried in years and I sure hope we can pull it off. Just imagine having access to a handy shop with all of the tools one might need, including many of a type or size not often available in a home shop. This will surely be helpful to all of our members, especially to those who might not have space or resources for their own shop just now. We envision it will also appeal to those who have their own shop because it will provide tools to fulfill unique or special needs, all in addition to some fine company while you work. But this won't happen without your financial support; we can do this, so please help us make it a reality!

We have several events coming up soon that should be of interest. On July 23, Dale Stauffer has arranged for us to have a Shop Tour at the Miniature Engineering Craftsmanship Museum in Carlsbad (3190 Lionshead Ave.). We were there a few years ago, but their fascinating exhibits are clearly worth a return visit, and I understand that the exhibits continue to expand. Then, the following Wednesday, we will have our regular membership meeting at 7PM on July 27 at the Al Bahr Temple on Kearny Mesa Rd. as usual. See Del Cover's article and our website for further information on the program. In May, we had a helpful presentation by a representative of Toolmart with information on tool maintenance and repairs.

On another subject, I recently learned that Tom Drinnon at TH&H (858-614-1800) is looking for a part time sales associate, who is a knowledgeable woodworker; hours 10 to 2, Monday through Friday. I thought this might be of interest to some of our members, so if you are interested just contact Tom directly.

Here's hoping that each of you have special plans for this summer, and that you are continuing to enjoy woodworking projects in whatever vein you find suits your interests.

Special Events Chairman

Jeff Miller Seminar

We have a great seminar lined up this year. Jeff Miller, who is a professional woodworker out of Chicago, will be giving a lecture and demonstration on chair making and design. It will be held at the San Diego School of Creative and Performing Arts on Dusk Drive. Jeff is a master woodworker, a published author, and has had many articles in Fine Woodworking and Popular Woodworking. Take a look at what Chris Schwarz says about him on line at:

<http://www.popularwoodworking.com/woodworking-blogs/chris-schwarz-blog/jeff-miller-modern-with-an-old-tool-streak>

Jeff makes contemporary furniture in his Chicago workshop. Jeff's furniture has been shown in galleries and shows nationwide, and has won numerous awards. His furniture is in the Decorative Arts Collection of the Chicago History Museum. He is a furniture designer, craftsman, teacher, and author of woodworking books and articles (he's also a former classical musician, an avid cyclist, runner, skier, and a dad) His book "Chairmaking and Design" will be part of the ticket price.

The seminar will be held over the weekend of September 16, 17, and 18. Refreshments and a catered lunch are included both Saturday and Sunday. Breakfast rolls, donuts, coffee and juice are provided each morning. Soft drinks, coffee, and snacks are provided all day. Door prizes are given at each break, and a special drawing will be held at the end of the seminar on Sunday. The proceeds of which will go to the San Diego Wood Turners TAV program for veterans.

Jeff's one day workshops on his web site are $225. Our 2 ½ day seminar is only $125 for members and $150 for non-members. Our seminar includes his book "Chairmaking and Design" plus breakfast and lunch on Saturday and Sunday. You will not find a better deal anywhere. We do this as a service for our members.

Member Shop Project

Gary Anderson,
Member Shop Chairman

San Diego Fine Woodworkers
Association Member:

Let me bring you up to date on our Member Shop Project and ask for your help on some specific issues.

Our fundraising total continues to grow, although more slowly. We're now over $40,000. All of that has come from just over 60 Members. While the contributions of this group have been more than generous, it's hard not to be concerned that there is not broader support for this Shop. If you have not yet made a contribution, I hope you'll reconsider and do so. Any amount will help, and you can now do it easily by credit card. Just go to the "Member Shop" tab on our website and then click on "Member Shop Fundraising." You can even set up a program to deduct a specified amount each month. Please help! We can't do this without you!

We've been working on developing a "Kickstarter" campaign to raise money through internet "Crowd Funding." Our Toy Group headed up by Charlie and Roger have jumped to the challenge and provided us with a significant number of toys to use as incentives. But we need someone with "Kickstarter" or "Crowd Funding" experience to walk us through the technical side of making this work. If you have this expertise, please contact me. If you don't, please think about who you know that might....a spouse, kids, grandkids... We really need some expertise.

Additionally, Pete Sterling, Alex Tamayo and Chuck Meacham have been working on a short video that we can use as an introduction to our Association when meeting with community groups and local companies as we turn to them for donations. Here's another place you can help. We need a contact at as many of these groups and companies as possible. Again, think about who you know at places like Qualcomm, San Diego County Credit Union, Sycuan, Coca Cola, Foodmaker, etc. (These are just examples....there are many, many more)! We don't need them to ask for us, we just need help "getting in the door" so that we can get to the right person. Again, contact me with whatever you have and we'll do the rest. Or, if you'd like to be part of the team to make these visits, let me know that too!

A number of people have begun to donate tools for the new Shop. This is great. It gives them a tax deduction and reduces the amount of money we need to raise. The tools we can't use will be sold off with the proceeds going into the Member Shop fund. If you can help pick up, re-condition, or help store and/or sell this equipment, we've got a job for you!

As you can see, there are lots of ways for you to get involved. Please let me hear from you!

Magazine Program

Mike Switalski, Magazine

A big "Thank You" to the following SDFWA members that made significant magazine and book donations during the June 1, 2016 Membership Meeting:

Joan Forbes - 7 large cartons of woodworking magazines; Clint Egleston – 4 large cartons of woodworking magazines; Stewart Hall – 4 large cartons of woodworking books & magazines

Are you looking to quickly jump start your woodworking magazine collection? Due to the large number and variety of donations collected during the June 1 meeting, a number of hardcopy magazine sets will be available for sale at the July 27 membership meeting. Magazine sets available are outlined in the table below:

Hardcopy Magazines Sets Available

Magazine	# of Issues	Price	Comment
WOOD Magazine	128 12/99 – 3/16	$25	Includes a durable wooden carrying case. Less than $0.20 per magazine.
ShopNotes	#1 – #138	$35	Complete Set!
Woodsmith	#1 - #224	$55	Does not include latest issue #225

Remember, if you are doing some “Summer Clean-Up” around the house, shop, or garage and have any old woodworking books, magazines, CDs, VHS tapes or DVDs, we would gladly accept your donation for the Magazine Program. Thank you for your continued support!

Estate Sales and Bequests

Article by Dick Ugoretz,
Member at Large

Several times each year, San Diego Fine Woodworkers Association receives a request for help in disposing of the contents of a woodworking shop. Some of these requests come from the family of a deceased SDFWA member, others from non-members in the general public. In the past we have dealt with such requests on an ad-hoc basis. Responding to such requests in an appropriate way involves planning and conducting a sale of tools and equipment - a complicated and time consuming project. Because of this, the SDFWA Board has decided to develop a standard policy for managing estate sales.

In recent years, SDFWA has also received bequests from the estates of deceased members; among them, the contents of a very well equipped shop from the estate of Len Wener and a large cash bequest from the estate of Henry Wenc. Our experience with these generous donations has shown that we should also have standard policies for dealing with bequests: conducting a sale of equipment we can't use, or storing it if we can, when we receive a shop; and, making the best use of funds when we receive cash. The board has drafted a document which details our policy and procedures for managing estate sales. It will eventually be posted on our website to provide this information to members and the public.

SDFWA assistance with estate sales promises to be a valuable aid to the families of our members as well as a service to families in the community at large. The revenue from such sales and bequests also has the potential to improve our Association's financial status and we may also wish to encourage and facilitate bequests.

Our estate sale policy will have to include a key feature: a team of SDFWA members who can work together to plan and conduct these sales. The board is seeking volunteers for this estate sale team. Please consider signing up to be a member. We will ask for volunteers at the next general meeting and also send an email to the membership asking for help with this important project.

Sharpening Stones

Article by Dick Ugoretz,

There are probably as many ideas about the best way to sharpen hand tools as there are woodworkers; too many to cover in the newsletter. But the key item required for all sharpening schemes is an abrasive surface, usually several sharpening stones. The great variety of stones and the nomenclature describing them can be confusing. In this article, I hope to provide some clarity.

"Oil stones" made from a natural material are the traditional choice. The finest natural stones are made of novaculite, a sedimentary rock related to flint or chert. There are large deposits of novaculite in the Ouachita Mountains of Arkansas and in Oklahoma. Beginning around 11,500 B.C., Native Americans used it to make arrow heads, knives, and scrapers with the technique called flint knapping - using an object to chip away at the edge of another stone. In the late 1800's, whetstones called Washita or Arkansas were marketed in the U.S. and became the popular choice for sharpening.

Novaculite varies in hardness from a relatively soft white stone (Washita) to a harder black (Arkansas) form and the extremely hard, and most expensive, translucent form. Speed of cutting action varies inversely with hardness; the harder the stone, the finer the polish.

Man-made oil stones are now available which consist of abrasive particles compacted into a hard block with a binder. The most common products are made under several brands in different grades of hardness. Many use aluminum oxide as the abrasive and are called "India stones." Silicon carbide, available in a wider range of grits, can also be used and produces a faster cutting action. Norton, among other producers, makes one under the brand name Crystolon™.

"Water stones" are also man-made with aluminum oxide or silicon carbide, but with a water resistant binder. They have the advantage of faster cutting than an oil stone of similar grit. However, because water stones are softer than oil stones, fresh surface is exposed faster as it wears away. As a result they require flattening more often than an oil stone. Many users find them less messy than oil stones. They need soaking before use.

Diamond stones are made by bonding a layer of tiny diamond particles to a metal plate. This layer can be continuous or interrupted by small openings, the purpose being to catch "swarf", a slurry of debris resulting from the cutting action. The interrupted style is most common, cuts very fast but is not suited for pointed tools. Diamond stones are extremely flat, remain so, and last a very long time. Particle sizes from 100 to 2 microns are available (for comparison, a hard Arkansas stone is 8-15 microns). They can be used to flatten oil or water stones. Two types of diamond can be used: mono-crystalline or poly-crystalline. The former is preferred because it lasts longer. They are, of course, very expensive.

Ceramic stones are the latest development in sharpening. They are made of fused alumina -- aluminum oxide exposed to extremely high temperature under special conditions. The layer of fused alumina is bonded to a thin glass plate. These moderately expensive, high tech stones offer a very flat surface, no soaking just a splash of water, and very positive reviews for fast action and excellent results. A very wide range of grits is available. There is an active online debate about the two leading brands: Shapton and Naniwa. Spyderco also sells ceramic stones. I have never used one. A diamond lapping plate is required when they need flattening. You can have your own 16,000 grit, 8 1/4"x 2 3/4", 5 micron Shapton Glasstone™ for $149.

Exotic stones worth mentioning: The Belgian Blue stone comes from the Ardennes in 4000 grit and is said to be of exceptional quality - a 6"X 2" stone is $48.95. For fans of Japanese stones, consider a nagura (Japanese for correcting) stone. This is used to rub the surface of a sharpening stone to selectively correct high spots, clean up metal residue, or create a fine abrasive slurry, which produces a honing effect.

About flattening: There are many choices for how to do this, from a diamond lapping plate, to a Norton silicon carbide flattening stone, for about $30 (I have one and like it); wet/dry sandpaper 120 - 220 grit on a piece of glass; or, just rubbing two stones of different grit together. To check your stone to see if it is flat, draw several pencil lines across the surface and then rub the flattening plate to see if they all disappear.

Bottom line: With sharpening stones, like so many other woodworking tools, you get what you pay for. Quality rests on flatness, source and uniformity of abrasive particles; choice of backing, bonding, and binding materials. My synthetic Japanese water stones were purchased over 35 years ago when The Cutting Edge was the only local supplier and they are as good as new. I have experimented with wet/dry sandpaper which works well but always seem to go back to the stones, although they take longer. I have tried a variety of honing guides and none of them are perfect. I would love to try a Lie Nielsen Honing Guide ($125). # San Diego Fine Woodworkers Association Proudly Presents the 2016 Fall Seminar Jeff Miller September 16, 17, 18 2016

Jeff Miller turned to wood-working after a career as a classical musician, and brings a musician's sensibility to his furniture designs. He has been designing and building award-winning furniture in his Chicago studio for over 30 years and has participated in numerous juried shows in galleries and museums across the country. Although he makes a wide variety of furniture, Jeff's greatest interest is in designing and building chairs, and he has developed more than thirty different chair designs over the years.

Jeff will be demonstrating chairmaking techniques while he builds and assembles a chair during the weekend. He will also cover chair design and give us his insights from his many years of chair building and design. Jeff's book: Chairmaking and Design (Linden Publishing) will be included as part of the seminar cost. The Friday evening lecture will be a slide presentation of his work and an open question and answer session. Jeff is a frequent contributor to "Fine Woodworking" and "Popular Woodworking" magazines and teaches around the country. His next book, on designing furniture, is in the works. Please join us for what will prove to be a fun weekend. Please go on line at <http://www.furnituremaking.com/> to see his work.

Besides the lecture and presentation, your registration includes:

- 3-day seminar Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday
- Breakfast rolls, donuts, coffee and juice each morning
- Catered hot meal lunch – Saturday and Sunday
