Our 37th Year of Bringing Woodworkers Together

The Next Meeting is 7 pm, Wednesday, May 30th, at
Our Mother of Confidence Catholic Church
3131 Governor Dr. - corner of Regents Rd.
Serra Hall (Downstairs)

May Program: Grate Lectures

Del Cover, Program Chairman

See you all there, Del Cover
Programs

May will be one of our "Grate Program Lectures" Del Cover, program chair will give a talk on use of and how to build gratings. Del will show how he designs, cuts and assembles gratings from simple lattice works to complex boat gratings. Del has found many uses of these in his work and they can enhance the design of a cabinet or outdoor divider.

The meeting will be on Wednesday May 30 at 7PM at Our Mother of Confidence Catholic Church, located at 3131 Governor Dr. - corner of Regents rd. See you there- Del Cover Programs

Editor's Note: The reviews are in and only one reviewer found the presentation to be grating. Most (4 out of 5) found it to be a grate presentation. We should all be grateful that we have such a grate woodworker in our midst.

2018 Design In Wood

Ed Gladney, Shows and Exhibits Chairman

By the time you get this it will be past the time to have your tickets mailed, but you can still volunteer and pick up your tickets at will call. We need your help, especially on the 4PM to 7PM and 7PM to 10PM floor walking shifts. At this time, we only have 6 slots for the 4PM to 7PM shift out of 50 slots needed. We only have a few spots left for the chair shop.

Volunteers from our membership are needed to walk the floor and work in the chair shop. NO experience is necessary to volunteer, and volunteering is very rewarding. Go to <http://www.sdfwa.org/volunteerduties/> for detailed information, schedule and sign up instructions. Help is needed with set up starting Monday, May 14 at the fairgrounds Mission Tower building. Enter the Solana gate and park near the building. Bring a screw gun, if you have one. There is a lot to do. We have Marines to do the heavy lifting. In addition to free fair tickets; enjoy coffee, juice and donuts in the morning; a great lunch and refreshments throughout the day. Come in and find any of our staff (those are the ones with employee badges) and they will get you signed up and put you to work. If you have problems, seek me out and I will find something for you to do.

Once the fair opens, we need members to "walk the floor" to help educate the public and protect the exhibits. A shift is three hours. You receive two tickets for each shift or four tickets for each closing (last shift in the evening). In addition, we need members to work in the chair shop building children's chairs for charity. A shift is two hours. You receive two tickets for each shift.

Fair tickets will be given to those who volunteer. Volunteer for several shifts and you can receive enough tickets for your family and friends. Up to 4 tickets will be given to those who help with setup (exact number depends on amount of time helping). Two tickets will be given for each floor-walking shift or chair-shop shift. Remember, sign up for a shift and also get two (2) free tickets to the Fair. Sign up for several shifts and get enough tickets for your family and friends.

AGAIN THIS YEAR: SIGN UP FOR THE CLOSING FLOOR-WALKING SHIFTS AND DOUBLE YOUR TICKETS TO FOUR (4) TICKETS FOR EACH CLOSING SHIFT.

For those who help with set up, we have free tickets based on how much time you work; along with the refreshments and a great lunch.

Sign up to volunteer online at www.sdfwa.org, or at the general meetings, starting with this month's general meeting. . This is your exhibit, SDFWA. Let's make it the VERY BEST.

Member Shop Project

Gary Anderson, Member Shop Chairman

One of the major objectives of the Member Shop is to enhance the skills and knowledge of our Members. Towards that end, we are delighted to announce a major initiative coming up in September.

Garrett Hack, renowned woodworking expert and the presenter at this year's Fall Seminar, will be teaching a class at the Shop!

The two day, hands on class, Delightful Details, will be taught to a small group, in the Shop, on Sept 10th and 11th, the two days following his Fall Seminar presentation. The workshop will include a variety of things such as decorative edges, beading and much more.

This will be not only an incredible opportunity for our Members, but a step forward in producing the very highest quality offerings for our Members.

More details will be available soon, but mark your calendar now for this once in a lifetime opportunity.

Woodworking Tool Sale

SDFWA has received a generous donation of quality woodworking tools and machines from the very well equipped shop of a long time SDFWA member and highly skilled woodworker.

We will conduct a sale of these items on Saturday, May 26 at 2732 Inverness Drive, San Diego 92037. It will commence promptly at 8:00 AM. There will be a strict cash and carry policy. Buyers will be responsible for removing all purchases at the conclusion of the sale. A complete inventory of the tools is posted on the Wants and Disposals page of our website - sdfwa.org One week before the sale the tools will also be listed on the San Diego Craigslist. Thanks to the generosity of the seller all proceeds will go to our Association.

Be sure to mark your calendar for Saturday, May 26. We do not have a facility to store these items. This will be an opportunity to acquire one or more desirable items at very good prices.

2018 Fall Seminar Garrett Hack

September 7, 8, 9, 2018

Cases are a fundamental furniture form, encompassing everything from chests of drawers to cabinets, armoires to sideboards. They require the basics of strong case construction along with a whole range of useful furniture making skills to build drawers, doors, shelves, moldings and practical and attractive details.

Garrett will construct a small hanging cabinet to illustrate the basics of casework and how his case design is adaptable to much more complex pieces. He will cover such topics as choosing appropriate materials, how to build with solid wood and allow for wood movement, building strong cases with interesting corners and details, the advantages of a face frame, solid case backs, and how to support drawers and maybe include a secret compartment or two.

Our cabinet will have a door, so Garrett will make one, and explain how to hang it with butt hinges. And for practical reasons and the visual interest they add, we need some moldings, which he will make with molding planes. Throughout the process, Garrett will discuss efficient ways of working that balance the speed of machines with the accuracy and superior finish of hand tools.

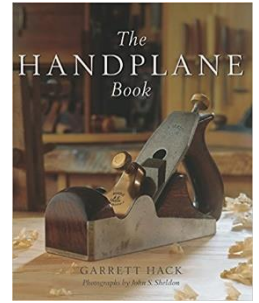

Garrett Hack is an internationally known furnituremaker, educator, writer, and farmer from Thetford, Vermont. A furniture maker of more than 42 years, he has created his own aesthetic, with designs that push his skills to the next level. He's also an in-demand woodworking instructor, teaching classes in Germany, England, Austria, Italy, Spain, Canada, Australia, and Japan. Hack has a great love of hand tools of all shapes and sizes and uses them to great effect in everything he builds, sculpting delicate details by eye. He is the author of The Handplane Book (Taunton Press, 1997) and Classic Hand Tools (Taunton Press, 1999), a contributing editor at Fine Woodworking magazine (29 years), and former chairman of the New Hampshire Furniture Masters.

Took's Corner

Took is my “Nom de Plume.” Since no one came forward with tales of wood or building, it will be my duty to continue to lend literary flavor to the Newsletter with mostly true tales of Took’s woodworking history.

The Five Hundred Dollar Toilet Paper Holder

Pacemaker, a client otherwise known as Bill Stemholz, was the victim of heart disease caused by smoking three packs a day, a diet high in fat, a high stress job in the computer industry and a gorgeous second wife who complained bitterly about all aspects of the remodel. Bill Stemholz’s heart told him, in no uncertain terms, that it was tired of the whole damn business, so his doctors put in a pacemaker whose job it was to flog the overworked organ whenever it showed signs of quitting. After that, Bill had two great fears. One was that his wife would get a splinter or trip on an electrical cord and yell at him, causing his heart to do those uncomfortable flip flops which always scared the hell out of him. The other was that someone would turn on a microwave oven when he was in the vicinity and the pacemaker would explode or melt or do whatever microwaved pacemakers did. His wife insisted on a built-in microwave over the oven and pooh-poohed his worries. Pacemaker wondered if his life insurance had anything to do with her decision.

This surgery, in the middle of the construction project, sparked considerable interest among the workmen who were all deeply concerned. Primarily, they were concerned about who would pay if the old guy died. At lunch there were deep, extended conversations about probate law and the contractual obligations of the dead. Took and Larry, who gave everyone nicknames, began calling him Pacemaker and it was Pacemakers’s bright idea that started the toilet paper holder fiasco.

Took was building the vanities in the bathrooms. When he was in the freshly dry walled master bathroom going over designs and discussing price, Pacemaker asked him if he would build a simple little oak toilet paper holder that was flush with the wall. Took, ever anxious to make a sale, offered to throw one in for free, thinking it would be a piece of cake and could be made simply from scrap wood. The first one was fairly simple. It was made of oak and designed to be recessed in the wall. It looked like one of those places found in churches that hold icons of saints. Larry said it looked like a shrine for toilet paper. There was a vertical dowel inserted at the base of the holder over which the roll of paper slid. The problem was that a roll of toilet paper would not slide over the dowel because of lack of head room. When Took cut the dowel shorter, the toilet paper roll fell out of the holder when he pulled on the paper.

The second try was more conventional. The roll of paper was horizontal and the one and one half inch dowel slid easily into the holder. Everything worked well and the holder went out and was installed with the vanity.

Six weeks later, Took got a call from Pacemaker’s irate wife who said she couldn’t slide a roll of paper onto the dowel because the hole in the roll of paper was too small or the dowel was too big. That is when Took found out that holes in rolls of toilet paper are not standardized. There is no committee whose job it is to make uniform holes in paper products. There was no governmental agency whose purpose included standardization of toilet paper rolls. The Uniform Building Code had no section devoted to dispensers of toilet paper products.

This revelation affected Took deeply. How many other products, he worried, had similar defects? How much of his trust in standardization was built on a foundation of sand? If something so simple as the size of a hole in toilet paper was ignored, what in life could be trusted? Were shoe sizes the same everywhere? Were medium shirts really medium? Who decided what medium was in the first place? Who was in charge of rulers and tape measures? Who decided how strong the steel in a circular saw blade had to be so it didn't explode driving shards of steel into his brain when he flipped on the switch and it began to revolve at 3500 rpm? Wasn't there a bureau somewhere in Washington that handled these matters? Took's worries ran deep.

When Took went to look at the paper holder, he had to acknowledge the problem. He tried halfheartedly and unsuccessfully to convert Pacemaker's wife to a new brand of toilet paper, but she refused his offer of a full case of an ecologically considerate brand. He sighed and agreed to replace the holder. As he was trying to remove it in the cramped area by the toilet, his pry bar slipped and he gouged a hole in the new wallpaper. Pacemaker's wife reacted violently. She screamed and her voice rose to new heights. She babbled about last straws, flaky subs and goddamn contractors and then broke into tears. Pacemaker, one hand over his heart, led her away and made her take two valium tablets. The third holder, finished in two weeks, worked with various sized rolls of paper and went in perfectly, but the damage was done. Luckily there was a half a roll of wallpaper left over from the papering job and it only cost Took two hundred dollars to pay the cheerful paper hanger to re-paper the hole in the wall. Took figured that actual time building the holder was a full, forty hour week, and although material costs were negligible, his labor cost was at least three hundred dollars. That, coupled with the cost of the paper hanger, brought the price up to five hundred dollars.

Have a tale of woe of your own? Ship it to Outreach@sdfwa.org.

Volunteering

At a recent meeting of the SDFWA board of directors we voted to launch a project to do long term planning in respect to a number of important subjects that influence how our Association operates. These include:

- improving reception and integration of new members,
- enhancement of our General Meetings,
- increasing attendance at the Annual Fall Seminar,
- updating the SDFWA website,
- more effective recruitment of Committee Chairpersons,
- developing better opportunities for member social activities
- plus a number of other subjects.

This project can only go forward if there is participation by our current members. The Board is seeking volunteers to lead small groups, each of which will be tasked to address one of these subjects and propose specific actions that can be taken to support the future growth and success of SDWFA.

We urge you to pick a subject of interest to you, recruit several other members to form a task force, come up with practical steps to make these goals a reality and present them to the Board.

Building on our History - Looking to the Future

From SDFWA's beginnings in 1982, incorporated to produce the Design in Wood Exhibition at what was then the Del Mar Fair, our association has a long and illustrious history. Arranging tours of local shops, bringing in woodworking experts and putting on the Fall Seminar, setting up all the activities at our local meetings, putting together our newsletter, and the work every week of our Toy Makers that have been meeting at Jerry Blakeley's shop for years are all just some of the wide range of activities that keep our association running.

It's also been very exciting to see our new Member Shop opening and thriving through its first year of operation. In addition to our first hands-on workshop coming up this Fall, we look forward to more exciting things happening because SDFWA now has this facility.

So there have been a lot of changes recently, and there has also been a lot of turn-over in committee chair positions. We are an all-volunteer organization, and we always need members to step up and help in ways both small and large to keep all our activities going. We've been struggling lately filling some spots, and some people have taken on multiple jobs. This isn't fair to our existing volunteers, and we miss out on new people bringing in new ideas. We don't have to do everything just like we've always done – the best way for SDFWA to grow and adapt is to get more people actively contributing.

At the last couple Board meetings we've started some discussion on how to get more participation. We are trying out some new ideas – we'll see what works and what doesn't. But the outcome needs to be more people actively in the organization. If that doesn't happen, some of our activities will just have to stop. For example – we've been producing our newsletters this year with interim editors – although we should have a new editor starting in July. But we still need people to take over as Email Manager, Craftsman List editor, and someone to represent SDFWA at the Old Tool swap meets. Plus we need more help with refreshments, publicity, managing our social media, mentoring, and working on our website. Pretty much anything you know how to do, SDFWA can use your help.

It doesn't have to be a large commitment – volunteer for working at the Design in Wood Exhibit – we still need people there. And it doesn't have to be taking over a job –most of our committee chairs would welcome an assistant – someone to share the work, or take over when the primary person is out of town.

So this is an appeal to every SDFWA member. Please think of something you can do to help SDFWA become an even better association. Got an idea to make something better? Join in and make it happen. We're a great group of people, and all my fellow Board and Committee members all cite the satisfaction of working with their fellow woodworkers as the main reason they keep active with SDFWA. We really need you to join us. Email president@sdfwa.org, or any board or committee member listed at <http://www.sdfwa.org/sdfwa-officers-and-committees/> Or talk to us at the next General Meeting or other SDFWA activity.
